WHISSON LAKE ADELAIDE HILLS

PICADILLY VALLEY - SOUTH AUSTRALIA

①

Warm north-east-facing slope, lower altitude (525-560m), richer soil. Pinot Noir from here gives wines with softer structure – less acid and rounder tannin – and intense ripe fruit aromatics.”

②

High altitude (560-605m), exceptionally well drained and exposed to the best of the morning and early afternoon sunlight. Pinot Noir from this part of the vineyard has fine but definite structure and pure uplifted fruit.

③④

High altitude (up to 610m) with a significant degree of easterly orientation in the slope. Very low yields from unirrigated 25-year-old Pinot Noir vines giving wine of concentration, structure, and the ability to age for 15+ years. It is fruit from these areas of the vineyard that are the power house and inimitable signature of Whisson Lake Pinot Noir.

⑤

Middle range altitude (540-565m) and easterly exposition but sheltered by trees to south. Old, very low-yielding, unirrigated vines with exotic ripening potential. Pinot Noir from here gives wines that are particularly characterised by the meaty/spicy Whisson Lake Vineyard aromatics.
